Dear Admission Committee,

I am a Magnetic Resonance Technologist at Dartmouth College responsible for MRI training and safety. We conduct fMRI experiments on subjects for various psychological research projects. I am writing today on behalf of Devesh Kumar Gola to recommend his admission to your program.

Devesh has an impressive resume', though I am more impressed with what is not in the resume'. He has a strong work ethic and his passion is to not only help others through life's biggest challenges, he also has a profound curiosity about his own development that translates directly to the concerns that others might have about their own lives. I have no doubts that Devesh will go on to discover many insights into the human experience and how to best navigate them and in turn pass that knowledge on to others to improve their own lives. He has created many tools to use in evaluating, planning and executing a protocol for improved outcomes in any area of a person's life that they wish to improve upon. He also has programs and personal counseling sessions to support one's path of discovery in whatever direction they choose.

I have had many conversations with Devesh about personal power and responsibility. He is not only full of wisdom and curiosity; he is inspirational in his approach to empowering others to engage in the journey of improvement.

I am honored to know Devesh and I am excited to see his work as it develops.

Best Regards,

Terry Sackett
